

Letter from the President

Happy Summer Everyone!!! In February we passed the 4700 mark. By this I mean we have brought in over 4700 dogs since our inception in 1985.

I'm excited to tell you that we have received verbal approval on our building permits for the new kennel. I'm hoping that by the time you receive this in the mail we will have paper in hand. (editors note—Moirra got the paperwork on the 20th of May!!) We are excited to break ground on our 35 run kennel. Look for more information on our ground-breaking celebration. I can't thank Don St. Clair and our Kennel Committee enough for all their hard work. We're working with our building contractor now to iron out the details of our contract and are eager to start work. Keep your eyes and ears open for more information about the new kennel as we move forward.

It is exciting to see how the word about greyhounds is spreading. We have some new venues at farmer's markets and non-pet stores which are exciting to see and help us bring the word about our wonderful greyhounds to a new world of potential adopters.

Check out our latest medical related article on teeth. It is so important to your greyhound's health to keep their teeth clean. Also check out the Summer Time Tips for information on how to keep your greyhound safe in the warmer weather.

On a slightly different front, Greyhound Pets, Inc. and GPI are now registered trademarks in the USA and Canada.

I'm not sure if everyone is aware, but GPI is a membership organization. Each member has a vote on issues put before the membership. Members are a very important part of GPI and play an important part in keeping this organization moving forward. If you are not already a Member or an Associate Member, care about the welfare of greyhounds and believe in the mission and thrust of GPI, and would like to become an Associate Member (you must be an Associate first before becoming a full Member), please contact your Regional Vice President or Robin James (our Secretary) for more information. You can reach Robin at robin@artistreegallery.com. Please note you do not have to be a volunteer in order to be a member.

Remember to always keep your greyhound on leash when you are not in a securely fenced area. And don't forget to use those muzzles when appropriate – they can be a great tool. If you need help with or have questions about your greyhound, please contact your Regional Vice President or Adoption Representative – they will be happy to help you.

Also check out dog number 4700 (Roman) – he is a wonderful boy and is still available. He is a hoot to watch at turnout time and he loves to run and play. Roman loves to chase a ball, a stick, a rope toy or whatever you are willing to throw for him. He will then run around the yard throwing the toy in the air and chasing it. Help us find this wonderful boy a forever home.

Thank you to all our volunteers and adopters. Without you we wouldn't be able to help so many greyhounds.

President

Your Greyhound's Health

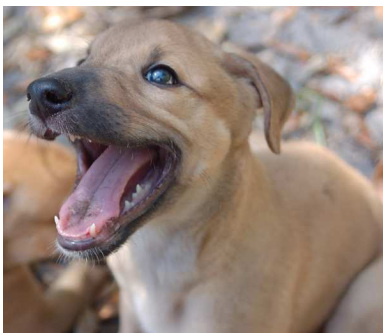

Keeping your Greyhound's Teeth Healthy

by Dr. Debi Wallinford DVM

They say the eyes are windows to the soul. On a similar note, good oral health is the door to good general health in your greyhound. And if you've owned a greyhound over 3 years old you probably also know good oral health can be difficult to come by.

First, let's understand dental disease. There are 4 stages of periodontal disease that range from gingivitis (inflammation of the gums secondary to plaque buildup) to advanced tooth and bone loss often including blood and pus. Many teeth in the advanced stage are permanently damaged and unsalvageable and must be extracted for the health of the patient. All stages of periodontal disease can continued on page 2

Your Greyhound's Health Keeping your Greyhound's Teeth Healthy

have secondary effects on the condition of the heart, liver and kidneys.

You may be wondering what can be done to improve your greyhound's oral health and to spare or at least minimize progressive dental disease. The answer is, of course, to brush daily. And while you're at it, could you slip in a few flossings a week? In a perfect world that is exactly what would happen, but if you're like most people, it's easier said than done. Fortunately, there are options... One of my favorites is a plaque prevention gel made by Merial called Oravet. It is an inexpensive, weekly at-home application that prevents the plaque that causes gingivitis. It can be spread on in about a minute which means that you can help arrest dental problems for less than one hour per year. Oravet works best when initiated on clean teeth but will assist in fighting plaque on teeth with mild tartar. It is available through veterinarians everywhere.

Another option is to use dental hygiene tools such as dental chews and oral rinses. A good brand is called C.E.T. by Virbac and can be found at your vet. They also manufacture quality toothbrushes and toothpastes. There are also specific diets such as Hills t/d that also aid in preventing tartar formation.

The latest development in the market of oral hygiene is a vaccine from Pfizer Animal Health called Porphyromonas Bacterin. It is designed to impede the growth of the 4 main types of pigmented bacteria that cause plaque in the canine mouth. It is administered in a series of two vaccines three weeks apart. If your greyhound has poor oral health requiring frequent professional cleanings, this may be the vaccine for you.

If all else fails, professional cleaning by your veterinarian is warranted. It is important to have your dog anesthetized for this procedure as an ultrasonic scaler will be used up underneath the gumline to remove large amounts of tartar not visible on physical exam. Many owners are concerned about the breed's sensitivity to anesthesia, but barbiturates are rarely used in this day and age. More commonly used are Ketamine, Valium, and Propofol – all good anesthetic agents in greyhounds and it is acceptable to inquire which will be utilized in your dog. While anesthesia is always a risk in any patient – not just greyhounds – treatment of dental disease and therefore general health—not to mention chronic mouth pain—must be duly considered.

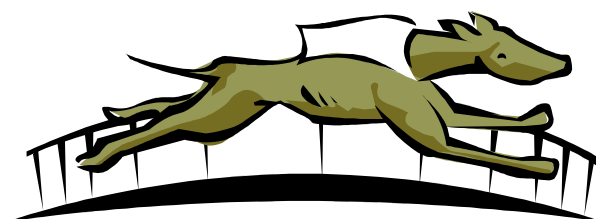

There are many options in the world of canine oral health. Although our chosen breed is not known for having naturally-occurring great oral hygiene, it is up to us as greyhound owners to accept responsibility for the condition of our dogs' mouths. Prevention is key to proper greyhound health and to keeping that door to your grey's general health wide open.

We lost our Tiger Boy to bone cancer last July, we found out in Feb. He was so brave & still a pretty happy boy. I think he was trying to be brave for us. But we knew it was time. My husband Arno & I were both with him & he just went to sleep... we were heart broken. We still have our Schatzie girl & we love her so much!

Thanks again Arno & Shari Illig & Schatzie

Dearly missed by
Cathy, Jack, Mike, Sam and Dan Munro

We lost Rose too quickly, too traumatically and too sadly to Osteosarcoma. She was running in the yard doing what she loved most - running, when she suddenly and very painfully came to a stop.

Bothell Pet Hospital ran xrays and found a suspicious mass near the breaks. She broke both leg bones just above the wrist joint on her right leg. The radiologist called Bothell this morning with the bad news. Dr. Kovar called me and I rushed over to help her over the Bridge. We lost Jae just 22 days ago to Osteo. I guess Rose missed her too much.

Rose used to "bay" in the middle of the night while dreaming which in turn got all the dogs a'roo-ing. I never got upset about being woken up to this wonderful call of the wild, unless it went on too long, then I'd try to quiet them all down. Fortunately, none of our family or neighbors ever complained about waking up in such a manner.

We used to play a game called, "Where's Mike?" She'd go through the house until she found Mike then she got a treat from him. Mike's taking her loss pretty hard. We all are. Rosie, we love you and miss you. Give Jae our love before you challenge her to a race.

Name: Jae

Tag #3169

Race Name: SA Jae

Born: January 30, 1997

Went to the Rainbow Bridge on December 27, 2006

Age: One month shy of 10 years old

Dearly missed by Cathy, Jack, Mike, Sam and Dan Munro

Daughter of Wigwam Wag and Granddaughter of Dutch Bahama, Jae (pronounced "Jay") was a confident, fun girl who cockroached more than any dog I've ever met. Toby, the dog we often dog sit, is a close second. We've fostered between 50 to 75 dogs over the years (I've truly lost count) so we've seen a few. None of them cockroached as often as she did.

Jae's race name was SA Jae but her tattoos led us to find out that she was a littermate of Gable Sarah with four other siblings. We've corresponded with Sarah's owner over the years. The connections these greyhounds give us are never less than amazing sometimes.

Jae broke her leg in a training run and never raced. Her left front leg was crooked as a result of treating it with vet wrap casts. I truly believe that the trainer did what she could. Jae survived to go on and experience retired life and true love. We were told over the years that she might get arthritis in her leg but it was osteosarcoma that claimed her leg and her life in the end. Jae also battled tick disease from the time we adopted her at Houndraiser on October 15, 2000 until the day she died. No matter what we did, her Ehrlichia titer didn't clear. For a time, we thought that perhaps we were dealing with an Ehrlichia induced bone infection. A last ditch effort of a heavy dose of Doxycycline was started but it didn't help. We'd like to thank John and Lorean Love for all the help, advice, good info and especially for their tick testing clinics over the years to monitor how she was doing. The Loves often told me that were it not for tick testing Jae over the years and her various treatments, we would have lost her much sooner.

We have so many wonderful memories associated with Jae, I won't take up space here talking about them all. She liked to gently walk up your body when invited, drape both front legs over your shoulders and gently give kisses. She had ESP too. She'd sit for a treat before you'd think of giving one to her. :) She sat and stared adoringly at Midge Moore at Country Village (twice, on two different occasions) while she ate her sandwich, hoping for a handout. I don't think Jae blinked or got out of her sit position until the last bite of sandwich disappeared, or Midge finished handing Jae bits of her sandwich.

Jae was diagnosed with osteosarcoma on July 6, 2006. She nearly made it six months and could have gone longer but she was giving us signs that she was ready to go. Since the famous windstorm and blackout on December 14th, her condition had declined. Her limp got worse and her confidence seemed a bit off as far as her place in the pack. She would wait for all the dogs to go inside before she would come in to avoid running into them. She was changing beds quite often at night. Even though she wouldn't complain, I had a feeling that she was in pain and was having problems getting comfortable. Modern day pain medication is wonderful and it certainly helped her but we couldn't live with ourselves if she broke her leg and the dogs packed her. It was better for her to leave us with dignity.

We had the good fortune to have six months to say a long goodbye to Jae. She walked with me every day right up to the day before we let her go. Oh, the walks got shorter as time went by. Sometimes, I had to give her a treat to get her out of the driveway. As I think back on it, I think I taught her it was good to stop walking so she could get a treat rather than encouraging her to walk. :) Maybe the owner wasn't very smart afterall. During our walks, I was always amused at how her limp would go away when she saw a squirrel.

Go in peace, sweet Jae. Thank you for all the lessons we learned through your life and for living and dying with grace and dignity.

You were brought into our lives on Aug 18, 2003 and oh what a joy you were. You stole my heart immediately. I loved the way you looked at me with those big brown eyes and the one ear up and the other hooked. I loved the way you used to haul stuffies around the house, and you playing with your squeaky soccer ball in the middle of the night. Our walks were special as you trotted with a big hooky tail and we would stop for belly rubs and Mommy would ask for Penny kisses. Your kisses will be missed, the way you talked to me when I had been out too long, the way you took your treats and trotted down the hall happy as could be. It feels empty without your moaning when you wanted attention. I filled with memories of special moments with you. You were taken far too soon. May you run free with no more pain. We will meet again someday across the Rainbow Bridge.

Call Name: Spooky

After many years of being my best friend has passed over the Rainbow Bridge. He almost made it to 15 years old. He never said a bad word about anyone. I will miss him.

I adopted Spooky in 1995 after visiting my local pet store and fell in love with a big greyhound that kept leaning on me while at the check out counter. This haunted me for several weeks and I finally called the local rep. When I visited Nancy's farm in Monroe, I was overwhelmed by the 10 dogs that needed adopting. The small white male kind of cowered in the background and I decided to investigate. He cowered at first when I went to pet him, then he displayed a big smile, and started "the lean". I was hooked – and couldn't wait to be approved so my new friend could come home.

The learning started when Spooky came home. Stairs were fun, carpeting was a new experience, the cat had to lay down the law a few times, my basset hound found a new friend who ran way too fast, and the day Spooky discovered my bed was the greatest of his career.

I had an acre fenced in so Spooky could really run. He would do laps for about 5 minutes at a time and then stand there panting and smiling...very proud of himself. The rest of the times were spent either sleeping with his short friend with the long ears, or chasing any rabbits that entered the yard.

One day Spooky came back from one of his runs around the yard crying – somehow he had managed to tear his skin open from his stomach all the way up to his back. I rushed him to the emergency vet hospital and they tried to piece him back together and finally gave up. I took him to my regular vet the next day and they didn't give me much hope. Spooky spent the next three months at the vet and endured many surgeries to pull the skin back a little at a time. Every day I would stop at the vet and go for out daily walk. Spooky would limp along with his I.V. and his Elizabethan collar. When I finally picked him up to come home, I was speechless to find out the staff of the hospital had all donated their time and expertise my total bill was $350. Once again Spooky wormed his way into everyone's heart.

The rest of Spooky's days were spent looking for that extra pet or scratch from whoever he could. He also thought that there was nothing better than a good soft bed or couch to spend his many hours sleeping and running in his sleep.

The last few years have been met with decreased activity and more and more sleep. I knew the trip to the bridge was coming soon and I refused to admit it. Two days ago I arrived at home and was not met with my usual greeting by Spooky and I quickly went to look for him. I found him in the back yard, on his side, barely breathing– staring glassy eyed into space. The trip to the vet was to be his last and my adopted friend has now crossed over the rainbow bridge to be with his short, long- eared buddy who has been waiting for him for several years now. I know they're both asleep on a big comfy bed with Spooky using his friend once again for a pillow. He never said a bad word about anyone...I will miss him.

It is with much sadness that we are writing to tell you of the passing of our beautiful greyhound, Tag! . We fell in love with Tag the moment we laid eyes on her and adopted her in 1997. She was a beautiful brindle (we liked to call her a "marble & chocolate ice cream" color). When we brought Tag home, she fit right into our family. She was a gentle spirit -- happy, loving, energetic and ALWAYS up for a walk. The moment we reached for her leash, she was at our feet jumping for joy. Tag loved to "talk" too. We would come home from work and "talk" with her and she would bounce with sheer joy as she "talked" back. Tag welcomed our children when they were born. She always looked forward to getting treats from our 7 year old son. Tag was diagnosed with "Fibrocartilaginous Emboli" on August 21st. On August 22nd, we were there with Tag as she passed on to a better place. It breaks our hearts to know that she is not here with us anymore. We will miss everything about her. She brought so much joy to our family over the last 9 years. Sleep peacefully, Tag. We will always remember you!

SUMMER TIME TIPS

The summer season is approaching and a number of areas have already had some quite warm days. As we head into the warmer weather, here are a few tips to keep our pups safe:

- Remember that pavement, especially black top, gets very hot so you need to be careful walking your pup on the hot surfaces so they don't burn their pads.
- Check the screens on your windows and doors. In the past we've had dogs try to escape out of windows without screens, even on the second floor. Remember that a screen (door or window) will NOT keep in a high prey drive dog or one that finds something of great interest on the other side!
- Don't leave your dog in a parked car unattended (even with the windows open). The temperature in a car can climb very quickly even on a 60 degree day.
- Take water with you when you are walking/running your greyhound(s). Greyhounds can quickly overheat with their lower body fat. Try and walk or run in the cooler times of the day.
- Always carry large containers of water and a bowl in your vehicle at all times. Also keep some towels in your vehicle so you can soak them in water and put them over your greyhound if they start to overheat. Keep the towels wet so they don't start to warm your greyhound rather than cool them. Spray bottles of water can also help.
- Double check your gates and locks and make sure they are secure.
- Don't leave your dog in your yard while you are gone.
- Always make sure your dog(s) have cool, fresh, clean water.
- Know the signs of hyperthermia and how to prevent and treat it.

Some of the signs of hyperthermia are:

- Noisy breathing that may indicate upper airway obstruction
- Excessive panting or rapid panting
- Bright red mucous membranes (gums, conjunctiva of the eyes)
- Weakness or dizziness
- Diarrhea
- Shock
- Vomiting - sometimes with blood
- Collapse
- Coma

Enjoy the summer weather and STAY SAFE!!

PUPCICLES

32 oz plain or vanilla yogurt (not low-fat or with gelatins, etc).

2 tablespoons honey

3 tablespoons peanut butter

1 large ripe banana

Blend all ingredients. Pour into paper cups and freeze.

Just for fun, we like it when Mom uses dog biscuits as pupsicle sticks. She inserts them when yogurt mixture has firmed, after approximately 90 minutes in freezer.

Is Your Greyhound Wearing a Current GPI Tag?

Please take a moment to look at the tags on your greyhound's collar. Is there a GPI tag with the new toll-free number on it (877-468-7681)? If your greyhound is missing a GPI tag or it has a phone number other than 877-468-7681 on it, please call the toll-free number or write us at

Please include the name and tag # (if known) for each dog.

Why is the GPI tag important? If your greyhound gets lost, the toll free number can be called and you can get your dog back faster. Plus, if you've moved and haven't updated your phone/address tag, then our toll free number could be the only way your greyhound is safely returned to you. Please keep your dog's tags current and update GPI about any phone or address changes. Thank you!

Dog of the Month

Tag No: 4517

Name: Lizzie

Registered Name: Marky's Liz

Age: 11

Color: White w/Red

Cat friendly: Yes

Dog friendly: Yes

Kid friendly: Yes

Location: Kirkland, WA (Foster)

Comments: At just 11 years old, Lizzie is a very sweet senior girl, who loves to sleep, eat, be with her people. Lizzie wakes up hungry at 6:00am everyday. This is usually not a problem, because that is about the time we wake up too. Despite the fact that she doesn't sleep in, she is very easy to have around the house. At home she is very mellow. Lizzie does well in the car, and she likes to go out for short walks. Then she just wants a soft bed to lay on, and a hug. ...And food!

For more information on Lizzie, and any of our other dogs, please contact your adoption rep!
